NEW YORK CITY AFFAIRS, Ac., åc.,

ALBANY, Jan. 16, 1861. The third house has rapidly filled up during the last twenty-four hours. The afternoon train from New York yesterday brought quite an army of these patriots to look after the interests of the people. They of course never think for a minute of their own affairs, but are la boring to protect the people. The schemes that have numbers in attendance. First and foremost we have a squad laboring for the defeat of the City Chamberlain will now before the Senate, and another batch laboring for it. These gentlemen are as busy as bees in the season of flowers, and bear upon their countenances the consciousness of great responsibility. No doubt the fa-bulous sums that it is said have been raised on both sides is the cause of this.

The numerous bills to amend and repeal the grants for city railroads in New York has brought a score or more to the capital, interested in those measures as well as the opponents. William Allen Butler has taken up his quarters at Congress Hall, snugly esconsed with Wm. Curtis Noyes, the two looking down upon the gridiron patriots with an apparent satisfaction of men who have their autagonists under their feet. Believing in the strength of their cause, they are quietly awaiting for the development of events; whilst on the other hand, the railroad party are moving about like men that had an important work on their hands which would not admit of delay. Their movements are those of shrewd men, determined to carry their point. We are promised some interesting developments in this line during the session. There may not be as many startling chapters as we had last winter, but they will be fully as interest-

The canai commission caucus last evening was a one sided affair, from the failure of the numerous candidates saded affair, from the failure of the numerous canadiates against Benj. F. Bruce to concentrate their strength upon any one man. If: Bruce had everything his own way, it is now understood that Weed only departed for New York when he saw that everything was duly arranged and his man would be nominated beyond a doubt. The Senatorial question will not be settled as easily; it being a larger prize the struggle to obtain it will be much more earnest by the friends of the different candidates.

more earnest by the friends of the different candidates.

The national crisis still continues to absorb the attention of the public mind. All eyes are turned towards Washington; it must be admitted, however, with but little hope of anything practical being done to avert the storm pending over us.

The Senate Committee on Federal Relations made their report this morning. Every member signed the resolutions, but two of the democrats refused to sign the

The report goes back and reviews the power over the reveral States embraced in the articles of confederation, and finds in that the confederation had no power to enforce the decrees of Congress, and to correct this weakness was one of the main objects of the framers of the constitution; and the committee find that the constitution of 1753 raffords unmistakeable evidence that, unlike the articles of confederation, it was ordained by and for the people of the United States; that it provides for the perpetuity of the general government, and release its citizens from their caths of allegiance to it. The report declares the doctrine of soccession irreconcitable with the constitution, and that it is nothing less than a deliberate attempt to eubstitute for the docision of the Supreme Court, whose jurisdiction extends to all questions arising under the constitution and laws, the dangerous action of revolutionary tribunals. To pass an ordinance of secession may be an easy matter; but who it comes to releasing citizens from their oaths of the little States, by a solution act of ratification, made supreme over all other constitutions. When it comes to resist the laws of Congress, made in accordance therwith, and to expel the garrisons from the nation's forts and arsenals within their territories, they will find no word to give a sanction to such proceedings; and that it would be more magnanimous for the citizens of such States to come out at once and cooress their acts to be revolutionary.

The ordinance of South Carolina contains no word of compaint against which have been presented by those who are plotting its destruction. They recommend that the Fugiture Save law shall be stripped of editors and offensive features. Whereas, the 'constitution of the United States was ordained by and for the people thereof; and, whereas, it establishes the parameunt authority of the government and provides for the people thereof; and, whereas, it establishes the parameunt authority of the government and provides for the people thereof; has the people of this State, if prespective of party distinctions, do hereby declare that the rights of the people of a single State, or several states, to absolve themselves at will from their solemn obligations to the federal Union gannot be acknowledged. The principle and the objects which the general government was formed to secure, are repugnant to such authority and the exercise thereof, wheresoever or howsoever attempted, is treasonable and must be resisted by all the remedies provided in the constitution. The first duty, therefore, of the citizens of New York is to be directed to the preservation of the Sinon.

Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the Legislature will sustain the Executive of the State in the offer and pledge of the military power and resources of the State; and that they will "provide for calling for the militar power and resources of the State; and that they will "provide tor calling for the militar and the state.

Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the State of New York is faithful to the federal Union, and will make every needful sacrifice to maintain it in its integrity. At the same time New York will make equal sacrifices to support the several States in all their constitutional rights.

Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That Congress has rights.

Resolved (if the Astembly concur), That Congress has no power to interfere with slavery in the several States, or any of them.

Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That although we believe Congress possesses the power to abolish slavery in the District of Columbia, yet it is inexpedient to excreise such power unless upon the following conditions—

1. That abolition should be on the vote of a majority of qualified voters of the District, and with the consen of the State of Maryland.

2. That it should be gradual.

3. That compensation should be made to unwilling owners.

The City Chamberlain bill in the Senate was again postponed until Friday, when it comes up for final vote.

A large number of bilds were introduced in the House to-day, referring to all manner of subjects, many of them of interest to the city of New York. Mr. Darcy introduced a bill to reduce the fare of the Union Ferry Company to one cent, and Mr. Nesbitt a bill to provide for a like reduction in the Williamsburg ferries.

Mr. Hutchings gave notice of a bill for the relief of John Clarcy. This is a bill to bring the suit brought by Judge White for libel against the Leader to immediate trial. The prosecutor in this case has taken it to a court where, it takes its regular turn, it cannot be reached for three years after the term of office for which Mr. White is elected expires. The object of the bill is to change its position on the calendar and have it tried at once. It will be pushed by the defendant to an immediate vote, as he is anxious to have the question settled at once; and on the other hand, it is understood that Judge White desires to postpone it as long as possible.

Mr. Walsh introduced a bill this morning, providing that the gas companies in the city of New York shall not charge for the use of meters.

Mr. Arcularius presented the following resolution, which lays over under the rules.—

Resolved, That the Comptroller of the city and county by the control of the provision of the bards.

The bill relative to the Finance Department of the city of New York coming up on its third reading.

Mr. Cours should decline voting for or against any New York city matters without being fully satisfied that the citizens of New York cited it. He had not forgetten the merciless charges made against the members of the last Legislature for voting on the New York city railroad bills. If they voted for, they were charged with being corrupt, and if they voted against them the charge was the same. At some fature time he would endeavor to show that Edwin D. Morgan was responsible for the legislation on New York city railroads that was had at the last assion. This bill, he could not learn, met with the approval of those who ought to be consulted in that city. A measure of this character called upon Senators to pause until the wishes of the people were obtained. When the citizens of New York—understanding the provisions of the bill—shall ask for its passage, he should be happy to vote for it. But with the information he now possessed he could not vote for the measure.

Mr. Manages—New York Senators certainly were aware that every paper in the city had advocated the pussage of the bill. He had no objection to the course proposed by the Senator from the Thirteenth.

Proposed New York Democratic State Convention.

ADMANY, Jan. 16, 1861. Several prominent democrats held a meeting here to night, and in consultation they were impressed with a sense of the great danger that threatens the Union, and suggests the calling of a Democratic State Convention to be composed of two delegates from each assembly district, to meet at Albany, as a preliminary to a Democratic National Convention, to convene at an early day to take into consideration the state of the country and see what remedy for the existing distraction can be suggested. It is said that while conceding the inhority to take possession of the general government under the result of the recent election, the democracy feel that as a majority of the people of the Linea they have rights, which at this time should be maintained, and that their stake in the preservation of the Union is greater than that of a minority party, although temporarily successful. On a comparison of views, they announce that the feelings of the democrats of this State seem to be in favor of firmly maintaining the Union and upholding the laws, but on insisting, as a condition, that the olive branch shall go in advance, and no means be left untried to reunite all the states of the Confederacy on the firm basis of securing to each its full constitutional rights.

A call for a convention will emanate probably from the representatives in the Legislature, and be issued forthwith. suggests the calling of a Democratic State Convention

New York Military Association.

The Military Convention met again this morning Generals Hall and Spicer were in attendance. The re-commendation of tee Committee to revise the Militia commendation of tee Committee to revise the Militia law for more thorough enrollment was adopted, also a recommendation to increase the force. The Committee recommend that an application be made to the Legislature to pass a bill to pay the military from the State Treasury, which was agreed to. After fi long discussion as to how much money should be asked, the subject of framing a bill to be presented to the Legislature, was referred to a Special Committee with power to act as their judgment dictated.

Gen. Scott was made an honorary member, the proposition being received with applause.

Capt. Roosas' complimentary resolutions to Major Anderson were adopted—unanimously.

A special law for the first division and fifth brigade will be framed by the committee.

A committee of five was appointed, to report what arms in their opinion it is necessary for the State to purchase without delay.

The convention is in session at the Capitol this evening, listening to an address from Gen. W. A. Jackson.

Officers for the ensuling year will be elected to-morrow.

NEWS FROM THE NATIONAL CAPITAL.

Despatches from Com. Stribling-His Explorations in the "Inner Sea" of Japan. WASHINGTON, Jan. 16, 1861. EXPLORATION OF THE "INNER SEA" OF JAPAN.

The Navy Department received this morning de patches from flag officer Stribling, with dates from Hong Kong to November 15. He communicates important in ormation respecting the discovery of a new channel in his passage from Nangasaki to Kanagawa. He says:-In our passage from the former place to the latter, we went through the 'inner sea' of Japan. This sea has not been frequented by foreign ships until the present year. It is studded with many islands, and has several toruous straits. It is free from difficulties, not well adapt ed for sailing vessels, but is perfectly safe for steamers. Ou pilots were not willing to run except by daylight. When the seat is more frequented, and shipmasters become ac-quainted with the proper places for anchorage, it will, 1 have no doubt, be the thoroughfare for all steamers run-ning between Kanagawa and Nangasaki, particularly after the ports of Heogo and Osaca are opened to trade. Osaca is the commercial emporium of Japan, where all the capitalists reside. In its vicinity are the principal silk and tea districts, and on an island not far distant are the richest copper mines. On our passage through the "inner sea" we anchored four times. At two of these we were effored wood and water, and with parties of officers landed they were permitted to walk around the towns, and were treated with the greatest civility. At Osaca, which is the residence of a Governor of the highest order, I sent a message on shore expressing my wish to pay my respects to the Governor. The officer sent was informed that an answer would be sent on board at a certain hour. Two messages were sent on board during the night, deferring the tim sent on board during the high, determing the time for giving an answer to my request. Having so business at Osaca, and being satisfied that the object of deferring to answer my request was to avoid permitting us by an thority to visit the city, I concluded not to await the Governor's answer.

He expects that he has delivered a message, and that the Ogalala being the ag-gressive party, replied that they could not come, as their horses were too poor to travel. He also said they were starving, and wanted peace, and would come as soon as they were able. Mr. Hith reports their condition as most wretched and pitiable, many dying of the measles. The report greatly relieved the apprehensions of settlers, and all united in returning thanks to Mr. Hith.

This fine steamer left her berth, pier 4 North river, yesterday afternoon, at about half-past three o'clock. There were comparatively few persons about the wharf beyond those connected with the vessel or having busi ness with the officers or consignees.

She took out about twenty-four passengers, about half of whom were ladies, who were returning to Charleston. She had a very fair miscellaneous freight, among which was a quantity of hay, boxes of dry goods, flour, potatoes and pork, packages of hardware, &c. The last things sent aboard were a horse and Mght wagen

Dr. Raphall's sermon is very interesting, has created quite an excitement in religious circles, and will amply repay a hearing.

Accusary to lix Sarkery William.—An unfortunate accident, which occurred to ex-Sheriff Willot a few days since, has proved more serious than was at first supposed Mr. Willet was attending upon his children and some ladies at a skating pend in the neighborhood of his rest ladies at a skating pend in the neighborhood of his residence at Washington Heights, when he received a severe fall, by which it proves that his left leg was broken in two places, between the knee and the ankle. The fractures have been successfully reduced, and his condition is as favorable as possible under the direum-tances, but he will necessarily be confined to his chamber for some time to come. Meantime the business of settling up his affairs as the late sheriff will be conducted without interruption by his counsel, Brown, Hall and Vanderpool.

The Workinghus, Makring, — in our report of the anti-percion mass meeting at Brooke's Hall we erroneously stated that the chairman's name was D. W. De Groot. It should have been P. W. Groot.

FIREITS BROADWAY.—Between nine and ten o'clock lest night a fire was discovered in the basement of the buildnight a fire was discovered in the basement of the building No. 167, occupied by Reynard & Oo, desiers in insect and vermin destroying powder. The firemen were promptly at the premises and extinguished the fire before it extended into the first floor. The damage done to the stock and sixtures will amount to about $1,000 and to be insured. The first floor is occupied by A. S. Gatchel, dealer in India rubber goots—stock slightly damaged; insured for $6.000. The building is owned by Dr. E. Parafec. It is damaged about $200; insured. The origin of the fire is unknown at present.

In your issue of this day I observed an article headed shot by a policeman. On Monday night, about 12 o'clock, as Mr. Taylor, of 226 Sullivan street, was returning home from the house of his cousin, 231 Sullivan street, which is nearly opposite his house, he met detective officer Wisson who shot him on the street as he was about to enter his who shot him on the street as he was about to enter his house. Mr. Taylor did not suppose the shot was fired at him nor was he sware of having been shot for at leget half an hour after the occurrence, until it was discovered by a Police officer. Mr. Wilson lives in the next house to Taylor and has lived at his present residence and the adjoining houses for the past twelve years, and it is hardly possible that detective Wilson did not know him. Mr. Taylor had no person with him, nor had he any bundle. Mr. Taylor a friends only desire that an inquiry may be made relative to the occurrence, and though they are able to prove that Wilson shot him without even speak ing to him, yet there are no actes taken to investigate the matter. Mr. Taylor has not been a porter, as you represent, he hus been for twelve years dry goods salesman in some of the principle stores of this city, four years of which was in the store of A. T. Saewart & Co. Wilson is still on duty. Is it possible that a respectable citizen can be shot down in the public atreet and permitted to passunoticed?

JOBN TAYLOR, 191 Fourth street.

The New Play at Wallack's, which has been in preparation for some time, was produced on Thesalay night before a large and appreciative audience. There has been no five act drama that we remember, in any of our metropolitan theatros, for a long time, that can compare to the "lady of St. Tropez," in richness of incident and effective situations. The first act alone would afford material enough for a good three act play. The play is a translation from the French, and has certainly lost none of its stage effect in the translation and adaptation to our bounds. Mr. Wallack, as George Maurice, never acted been no five act drama that we remember, in any of our to the "Lady of St. Tropez," in richness of incident and effective situations. The first act alone would afford ma-terial enough for a good three act play. The play is a translation from the French, and has certainly lost none of its stage effect in the translation and adaptation to our boards. Mr. Wallack, as George Maurice, never acted better. This George Maurice is a native of St. Tropez, a small fishing town on the south coast of France, near Toulon. As captain of a privateer he becomes wealthy in the course of a few years. Visiting Paris on business, he accidentally sees Hortense (Mrs. Hoey), daughter of the Count d'Auderive, a creditor of his, who owes him an enormous sum of money. He falls in love on first sight, and when about to become the possessor of the Count's property in satisfaction for the debt, discovers that the young lady is the Count's daughter, and generously refuses the deed of assignment which would infal libly beggar father and daughter; but the Count haughtily insists on the surrender. As an equivalent-by way of balancing the obligation—Maurice asks the daughter's hand in marriage, an offer which the old Count indignantly rejects, but which the young lady accepts, solely with a view to save her father's property. Unfortunately, she is deeply enamored of a young doctor, Charles d'Arbel, of which fact Maurice is entirely ignorant. The married couple, like a great many others, are not hap-py. The husband takes his bride home to St. Tropez. Her hosband's relations, who are naturally anxious to in-herit his vast wealth, plot his and his poor young wife's destruction, and manage so adroitly that the poisoning of Maurice is traced unequivocally to Hortense. Nor does Maurice entertain any doubt of his wife's guilt until he discovers his cousin Antoine mixing the poison with his medicine. He has in the meantime discovered the secret which preyed upon her mind and was such a mystery to him, and in the last scene, when about to die (for the poisen has worked too surely), joins the hands of the lovers and expires. Mrs. Hoey, as flortense, plays her lovers and expires. Mrs. Heey, as flortense, plays her part very well.

We predict that the play will be very popular and have a successful run. There are many fine sceaes in it, which would be well worth noticing in a more particular manner, if we could afford the space; and if the audionce last night, which was large in spite of the disagreeable weather, was any index to what future audiences may think, we are sure our prediction will be, as we hope it may, fulfilled.
